Electronics engineer · 27 years with Siemens, Nokia, Reliance, Honeywell and Infosys · IIM-Bangalore certified international negotiator

A PFC resident since 2020, living here in a joint family with his wife, children and parents. An electronics engineer, certified by IIM Bangalore as an international negotiator, with twenty-seven years across Siemens, Nokia, Reliance, Honeywell and Infosys; his present work is high-value government and PSU tenders. Earlier in his career he worked on civic reform — urban voting, sustainable city transport, and bringing more professionals into public life — and was nominated an honorary member of the vigilance committee at the Karnataka Food and Civil Supplies department. What he wants to push on here follows from the tender work: concluding the Prestige handover, the HOTO, properly and in full; bringing operating costs down; open house sessions where residents can raise things directly; and internal audits with quarterly financial reporting. What prompted him to stand, he says, was the water contamination and the general body meetings that followed it.
